This is Little Red.
Today she is going to be
gobbled up by a lion.

This is the Lion!
(Well, that's what he thinks is going to happen anyway.)

One hot morning, Auntie Rosie
woke up covered in spots.

There was only one
thing for them:
spot medicine.

RING!RING!RING!RING!RING!

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" said
Little Red when she heard the news.
"I'll come right away!"

So she put some
spot medicine
in her basket
and waved
good-bye to
her daddy.

"Oh, hello," purred the Lion.
"Where are you going?"

"To visit my auntie who is covered in spots," said Little Red.

In the time it took for his tummy
to rumble, the Very Hungry Lion
had cooked up a very

naughty
plan.

My Very Clever Plan.

① Sneak off to
Auntie Rosie's
house.

② Hide her
in a cabinet.

③ Dress up
as Auntie Rosie.

④ Wait for a bit.

⑤ Jump up and
EAT Little Red.

⑥ Eat Auntie Rosie
for dessert.

Well Done!

you are a
clever Lion!

And he rushed off to put his plan into action.

And Little Red made
the Very Hungry Lion
brush,
brush,
brush
his teeth until
they sparkled.

"Oh, Auntie!" sighed Little Red.
"What an old nightgown you are wearing!"

And before the Very Hungry Lion knew it, Little Red had found a much
prettier dress for him
to wear.

This had not been part of the Lion's plan, either.

Little Red pointed her finger.

"Well, trying to eat children and aunties is VERY naughty. If you were hungry, all you had to do was ask for some food."

The Very Hungry Lion let Auntie Rosie out of the cabinet and said sorry ever so politely.

Little Red gave Auntie Rosie the spot medicine, which worked immediately.

Then the three of them gobbled up a whole basket of doughnuts together.

(The Lion had five.)

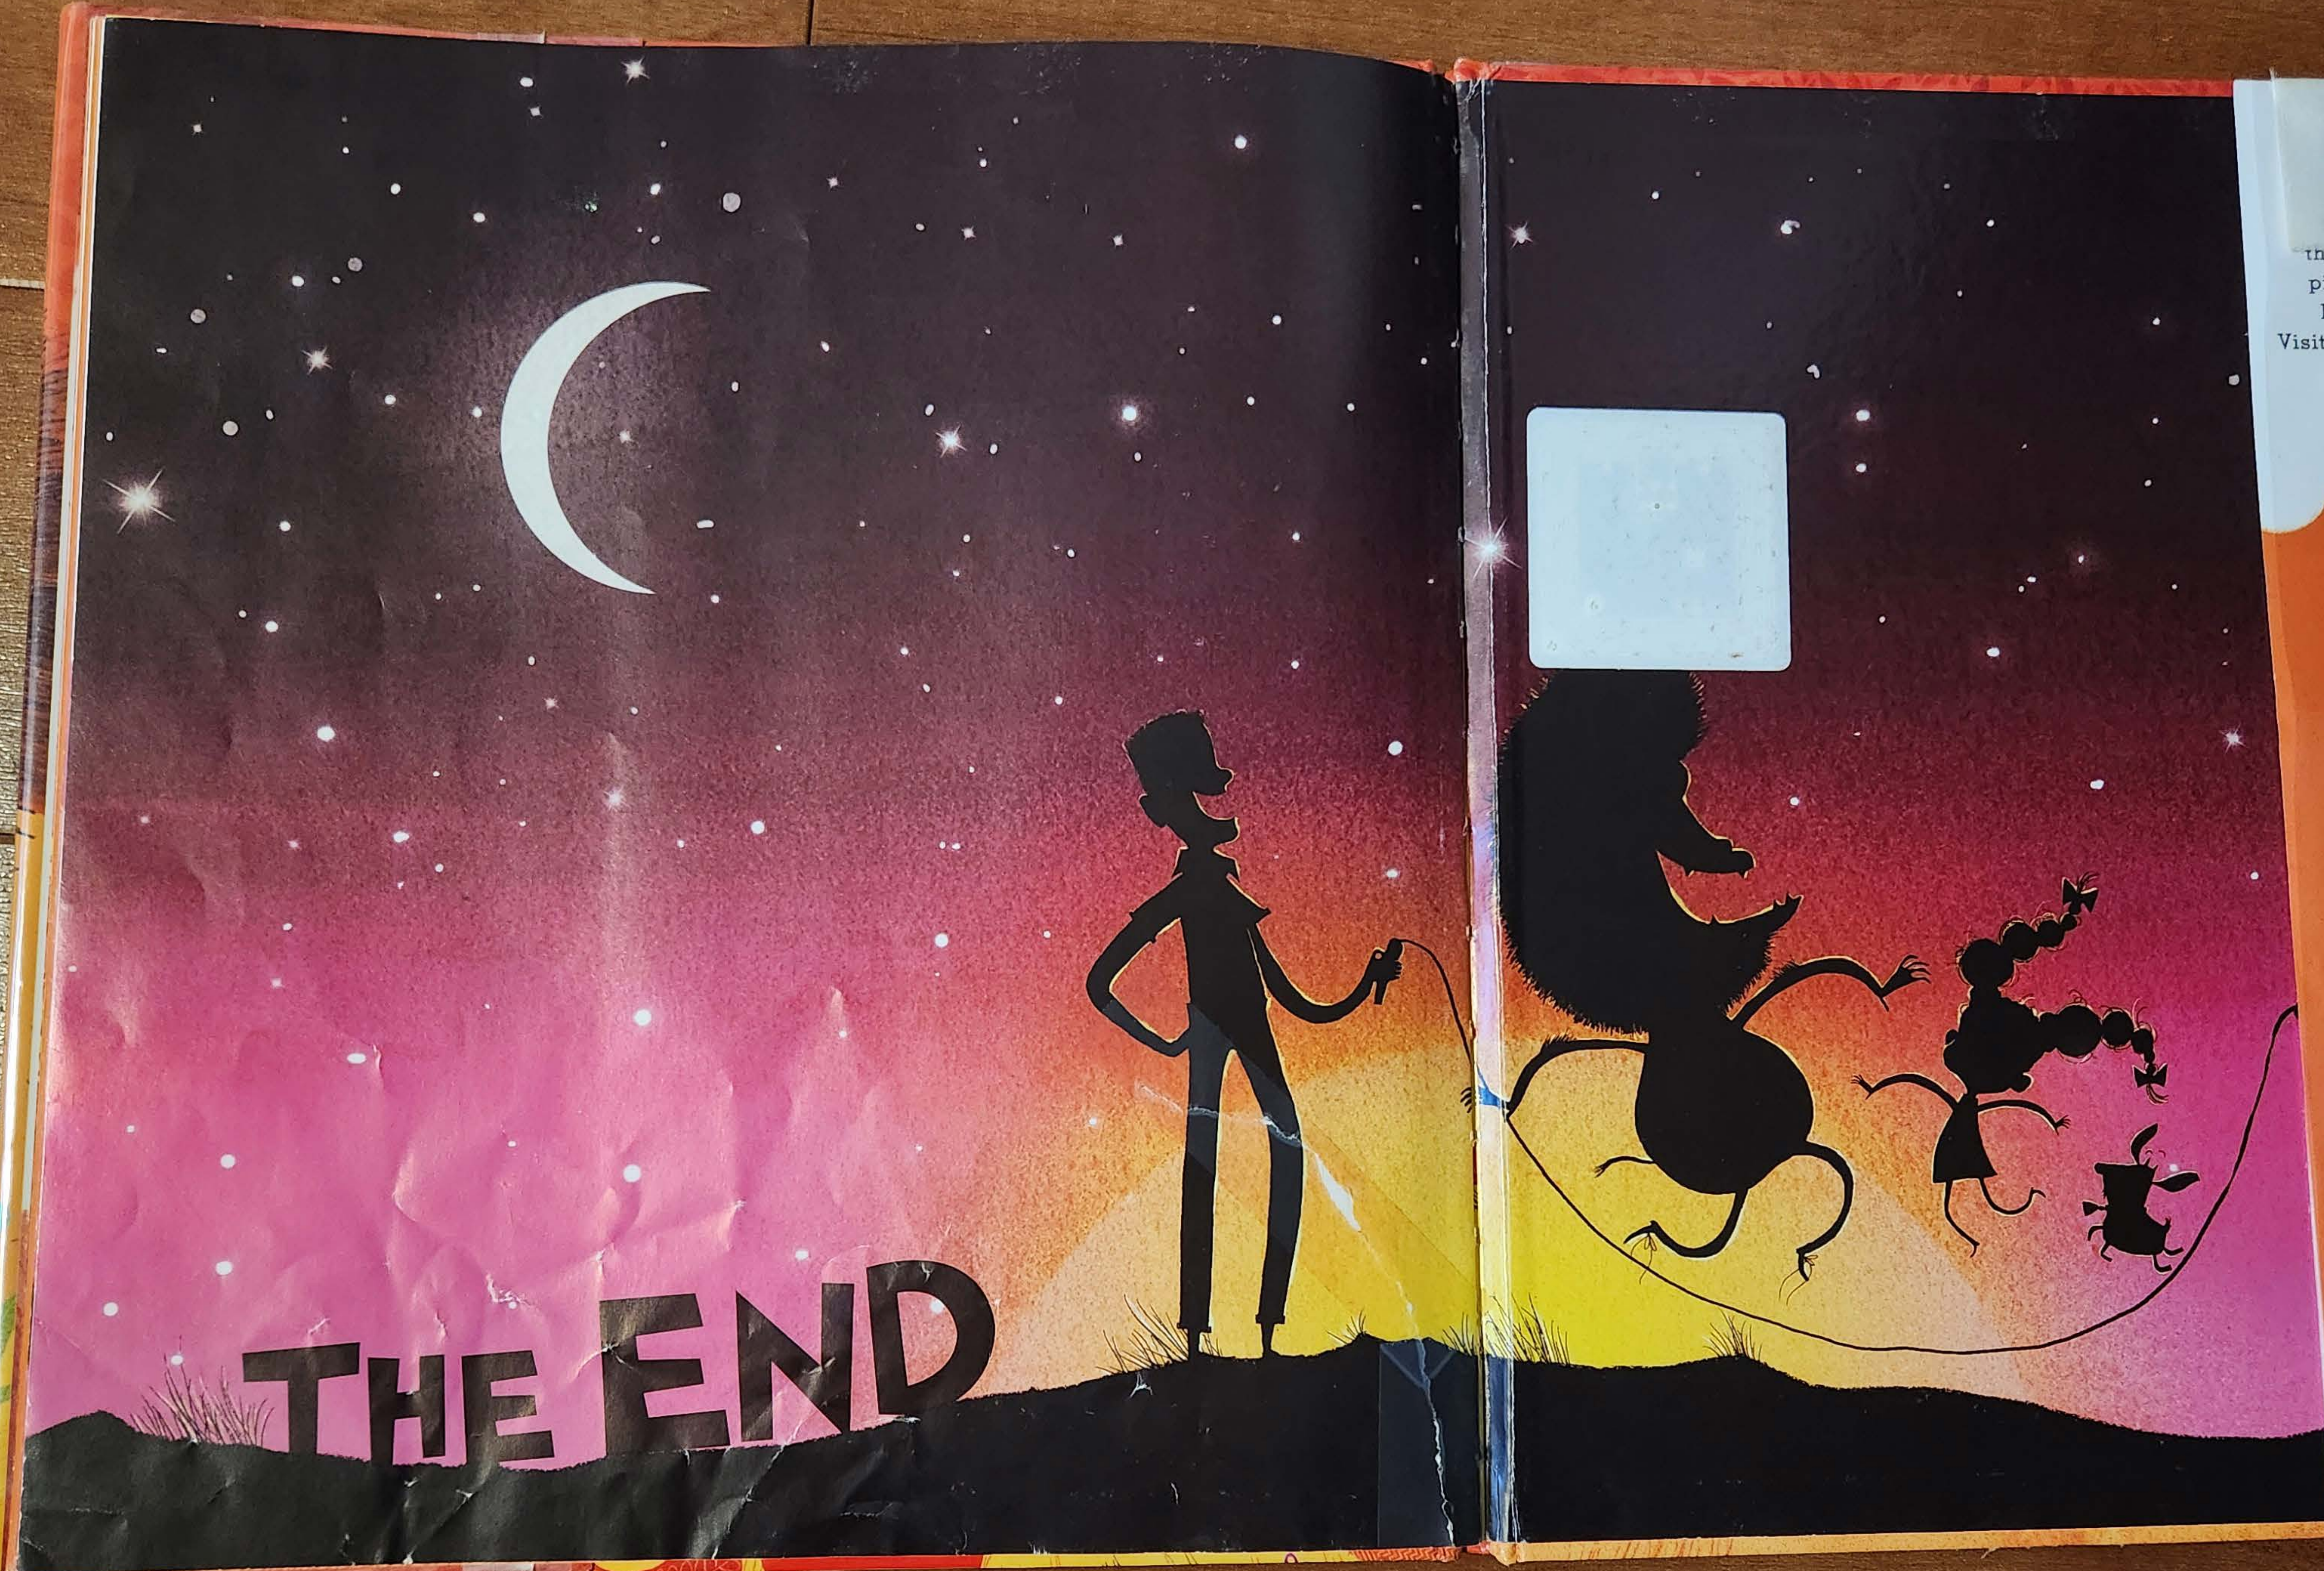

Soon it was beginning to get dark, so the Lion walked all the way back home with Little Red on his very best behavior. He promised to never, ever, ever

try to eat another auntie OR any children.
